

I have Endometriosis. One in ten women suffer from this painful disease. It causes severe pelvic pain and often results in infertility. Many girls as young as 10 can't attend school. Many women can't work.

On May 16 there will be an information day/conference on Endo at Sydney University.

I am asking you to sponsor me to attend this very special day. I will be able to meet other women with Endo, network with support groups and learn more about a disease that no-one talks about. Most people have never even heard of it.

It will cost $125. Many other girls are asking people in their local community to help support them in this way. With your pledge I can register for the Conference and forward the Invoice to you.

There will be specialists, doctors, scientists and health practitioners sharing their knowledge on trends in treatment, latest research and other non-surgical ways to manage Endo.

You can find out more about it including the program and speaker details by visiting: <http://www.dconferences.com.au/endo2015/>

agree to sponsor

so she may attend the 1st EndoActive National Endometriosis Conference and I agree to honour the invoice for $125 which she will forward to me after she registers.
